To Whom It May Concern,

This letter is in regard to my cousin, John Smith. Some years ago, John didn't have the proper guidance in his life and made many mistakes, some of which landed him in court and ultimately in jail. Since his release all those years ago, John has been an upstanding citizen, a fantastic father and father figure, a hard-working individual who's provided a good life for his family and his wife, and a wonderful member of our entire family. He's a person that many of us have come to depend on and cherish any time spent with him.

John deserves to be granted a pardon for his past mistakes because he not only paid his dues but has completely changed his entire life. This mark on his record is and has been holding him back from careers that he is so deserving of due to his work ethic and resilience to all life has thrown his way.

Unfortunately, the criminal justice system gives access to so many avenues of learning while in the system, only for those reformed people to return to a workforce that will keep doors closed on them. It's still expected of them to succeed with their lives in a positive direction with nowhere to turn but back to the issue that may have led them down the wrong path in the first place. With all that is against them, John has still prevailed. With every "No" he receives, multiple job applications are always waiting in its place.

This is the court's opportunity to show second chances are real and worth fighting for. Especially to a man who has been fighting for the right path almost his whole life. I'm asking the court to give my cousin, John Smith, a REAL, true second chance by expunging his record and letting his life and career move forward in the manner in which he is now so deserving.

Thank you for taking the time to learn about John Smith and considering him for expungement. It means not only the world to him but to our whole family as well.

Sincerely,

Cara Johnson

To the PA Board of Pardons:

My name is Flo Johnson; I am John Smith's aunt. I have known John since the moment he was born. My nephew John has always been the most kind-hearted person in the world but at one time in his adolescence life, he fell into a dark hole. During this time, he lost contact with his family and his two daughters with lots of prayers. He progressed and became the man that he was meant to be, and he is now a loyal husband, a hard-working man, and a great supportive dad to his daughters. He also supported his daughter and his granddaughter during a difficult time in their life. His granddaughter sadly passed away due to illness, and no matter how difficult this was for him, he stood up and stayed strong. He never left his daughter's side through the whole entire journey. He is no longer the old person he used to be. He is a blessing to this family. He is an upstanding citizen who continues to work hard and support his family.

To the PA Board of Pardons:

I met John in 2011 when he and my mother started their relationship. I was 15 at the time, and many things were changing in my life, including having him join my family. Luckily, he embraced the father figure role wholeheartedly from the beginning and has been an exceptional father ever since.

John's honesty always stood out to me; from the start of our relationship, he was honest about his life and the challenges he has had to face. We learned from him, often through his actions, the importance of hard work, prioritizing kindness and family, holding yourself accountable, and honoring your word. I am truly thankful for his influence and his dedication to our family.

When I had my daughter, I was trying to finish school and work, which was a challenge for me, but I had his support the entire time. I always felt like my dad was going to make sure I had what I needed to be successful, safe, and happy in order to be the best mom I could be. I am now 28 and I live on my own with my daughter, and his support remains an unwavering constant, a safety net we can always rely on. His relationship with my daughter is a testament to his warmth and nurturing nature; they have a bond that is greater than I could have imagined. The moments he and my mom share with my daughter hold immeasurable value to me. John has, without a doubt, been a blessing to my family.

Thank you for your time,

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Normon Voski, and I am the owner of Geraldo Pizza. I met John Smith in July 2011 when my son hired him to cook for my pizza shop.

John was a very hard-working person; he worked his way up to be my manager within 2 years. As my manager, he was very loyal; he made sure that the restaurant ran smoothly and was very friendly to customers. When I opened Geraldo Pizza, I was very busy getting the restaurant up and running and John did all the inventories as well as paying the vendors, running to the restaurant depot, and depositing money in the bank. When I opened my 4th restaurant, I offered John a co-ownership of the pizza shop, and he did a great job for 4 years until it was sold.

I really don't know anything about his past, but the person that I've known for the last 10 plus years is a caring, kind, hard-working family man who was always willing to help when I needed him to and if anyone deserves a second chance, I would really recommend that it would be him.

Thank you for your time. If you have any questions, please feel free to call.

Sincerely,

Normon Voski

To Whom it may concern,

I Jack Smith Jr. presently a Correctional Officer at Chester County Prison am writing this letter in hopes that it helps my older brother, John Smith, resolve and erase his history with the law. John Smith has come a long way since his youth and transformed into a model citizen in such a way that it would be hard to believe that one would be talking about the same individual. My brother has completed so many successful dreams since his last incarceration, for example, getting married, starting and selling his own pizzeria, and helping raise his grandchildren, all while holding a lead repair technician position in his present job at a propane delivery company. I'm not writing to you just because he is my brother but because I have witnessed the past and present and have faith that his future will not be anything less than productive and he will continue to be someone that would be a joy to be around to share life with as we grow older. Please take into consideration these few lines as you make your final decisions on the outcome of his pardon. You won't regret it, and John, I trust, will keep making you, me, and the rest of his family nothing but proud.

To the PA Board of Pardons,

A popular saying is, "When you're young, you're dumb." When you're young, you think you already know it all. This tends to lead us to make so many mistakes but as we get older, we wish we could change the hands of time. I don't need to tell you the mistakes my nephew has made in the past, as I'm sure you're already aware. However, I truly believe we all deserve a second chance in life. To be given the opportunity to clear his record and, in turn, his name...it's something that anyone in his position wishes they were able to do. The fact that you are able to do this for him, is truly a blessing!

My nephew has done a complete 360 with his life. He has become a better son, brother, nephew, father and husband. We have to thank those who have never up-given us, like our parents and family. When my nephew remarried, he married a strong woman who has always been there for him, through good times and bad. I hope my nephew's record can be cleared because he has truly changed for the better and has become an amazing man that I stand by and am truly proud of.

Sincerely,

Rachel Johnson

To the PA Board of Pardons,

My name is Tyler Loving and I had the immense pleasure of being the Pardon Coach for John Smith. Throughout my time working with John a few things stood out to me that I feel set him apart from others in his situation. He has always been upfront and truthful about his past actions, but that's only part of what makes him unique; when he speaks, he conveys a message of lessons learned with a humble, contrite spirit. He does not blame the legal system for his troubles but takes personal responsibility for his actions at every junction of his life's story.

The common consensus among his family and friends cites his unwavering determination to improve his life's circumstances utilizing lessons learned while leveraging his strong moral character that is devoid in many people in similar circumstances. It is far too common to blame the system and to shirk responsibility for one's actions. This is not John. Here is a man who quite literally is thankful for the time he spent incarcerated because he recognizes the importance of regaining his sobriety, listening and learning from those hard life lessons, and coming out better on the other side because of it. Not many can pull themselves out of homelessness, regain the faith and trust of family, and repair the damage done. John has and continues to do the impossible.

It's my firm belief that the purpose of the Board of Pardons exists exactly for people like John Smith. Please consider these facts and the included testimony from his friends and family as a confirmation of his strong moral character, determinative attitude toward improvement, and humble demeanor as indicators of a person deserving of a Pardon from the Governor of Pennsylvania.

Thank you for your time and consideration in this matter.
